

Resources for the Eucharist

These books and resources are a selection from the wide variety of excellent material published for those interested in the study and the practicalities of leading worship. They are chosen to help those who want to create awesome worship.

The Durham Diocesan Liturgical Committee (DLC) holds regular training events on worship which are advertised in Newslink and on the diocesan website.

Praxis provides and supports liturgical education in the Church of England, and runs national and local events, as well as publishing Praxis News of Worship quarterly. For more information, see www.praxisworship.org.uk

The Theology of Worship – how and why worship is put together as it is

Mark Beach Using Common Worship: Holy Communion (Church House Publishing 2000, 2003)

Colin Buchanan and Charles Read The Eucharistic Prayers of Order One (Grove Books W158)

Stephen Burns Living the thanksgiving: exploring the eucharist (Canterbury Press 2006).

All Age and Seasonal Resources

The additional collects, a collection of authorised collects in clear and simple language (Church House Publishing 2004)

New patterns for worship (Church House Publishing 2002)

Jan Brind and Tessa Wilkinson Crafts for creative worship: a resource and activity book for parishes (Canterbury Press 2004)

David Graham The word for all seasons (Canterbury Press 2002) Although this is a book about non-eucharistic services it has ideas for opening and closing prayers and for intercessions that would work just as well in the eucharist.

Ian Tarrant Scripture-based liturgies (Grove Books W175)

A number of books of seasonal resources for imaginative worship are published by the Iona Community's Wild Goose Publications, including Hay and stardust (Christmas to the end of Epiphany) and Stages on the Way (Lent to Easter). See their website www.ionabooks.com for full details of what is currently available.

Many of the publications giving children's teaching material also offer resources and ideas for all-age worship. The quality, however, is very varied. Take advice and browse in your bookshop before buying.
